- Provide your library staff with access to usage statistics
- Reduce the real costs of managing statistics

scholarlystats

"ScholarlyStats collect the usage information on our behalf and present it to us in a way that is much more usable than anything we've had in the past. The real value to us is having them do the time consuming work!"

DENISE KOUFOGIANNAKIS – University of Alberta, Canada

"At Newcastle University we closely analyze our usage data to inform our decision making. ScholarlyStats really helps us understand what content our users need, and we are providing a better service as a result."

CLIFF SPENCER – Newcastle University, UK

Collect, Consolidate and Analyze all your usage statistics from one location

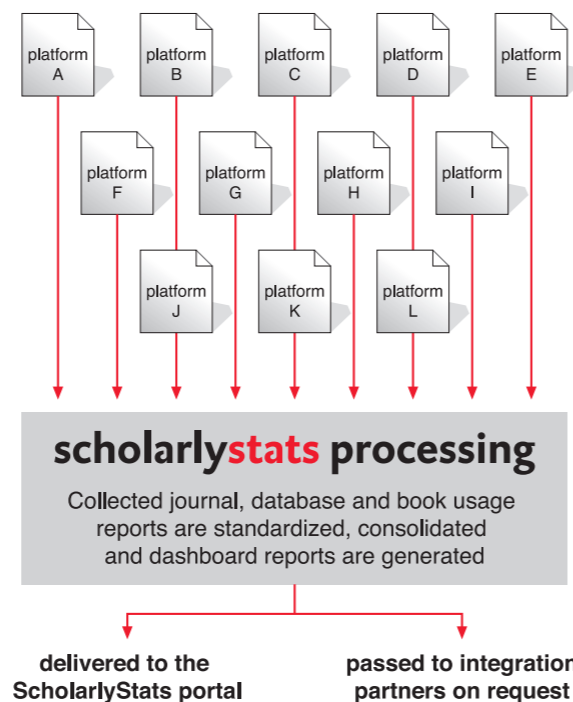

The value of usage statistics has never been greater. Modern libraries have access to increasing volumes of statistics, providing valuable insights and helping to inform decision making. However, compiling and interpreting the statistics from multiple vendors can be time-consuming and frustrating.

The ScholarlyStats portal has been developed to provide you with a single point of access for all your vendor usage statistics. ScholarlyStats enables you to use your time analyzing, rather than administrating.

How the process works

ScholarlyStats collects and consolidates journal, database and e-book usage statistics that are provided each month to libraries by their vendors. We process this information to standardized formats, and deliver a suite of reports to your library's ScholarlyStats portal.

ScholarlyStats includes a set of Consolidated Reports which show usage across vendors, based on the standards outlined by the COUNTER code of practice. In addition, and to enhance analysis of usage trends, we also deliver a suite of graphically enhanced Dashboard Reports.

ScholarlyStats Integration

Upon request, ScholarlyStats can transfer reports into other library systems, including ERM systems. To automate this data transfer we follow the industry-standard SUSHI protocol.

Consolidation

View and analyze usage statistics in one consolidated report. ScholarlyStats consolidates the key usage statistics reports, to provide a new view of your statistics across vendors and platforms in a standardized and easy-to-view format:

- Journal Report 1 – full-text article requests
- Database Report 1 – searches and sessions by database
- Database Report 2 – turnaways
- Database Report 3 – searches and sessions by service
- Book Report 1 – title requests
- Book Report 2 – section requests

Dashboard Analysis

Analyze trends in usage statistics at a glance with the ScholarlyStats Dashboard Reports. We provide separate Dashboard Reports for journals and e-books. Our growing suite of dashboard reports feature easy to view graphs, and include:

Journals

- Total Journal Titles by Platform
- Total Journal Use by Platform
- Average Journal Use by Platform
- Top Use Journals by Platform
- Low Use Journals
- Zero Use Journals
- Top 50 Use Journals
- Proportional Journal Use

Books

- Total Book Titles by Platform
- Total Book Use by Platform
- Total Section Use by Platform
- Average Book Use by Platform
- Top Use Books by Platform
- Zero Use Books

Access for your library staff

Provide your library staff with access to your usage statistics. With ScholarlyStats you remain in control of who has access to your statistics. You can create additional user accounts for your library colleagues, either as read-only users, or as additional library administrators.

Collection

Find all vendor usage data in one place. ScholarlyStats collects all raw vendor source reports and makes these available in a standardized CSV format in the ScholarlyStats portal.

Archive

Access historical usage statistics reports for year-on-year usage analysis. ScholarlyStats provides archiving for all raw vendor source usage statistics reports, together with the ScholarlyStats Consolidated and Dashboard Reports.

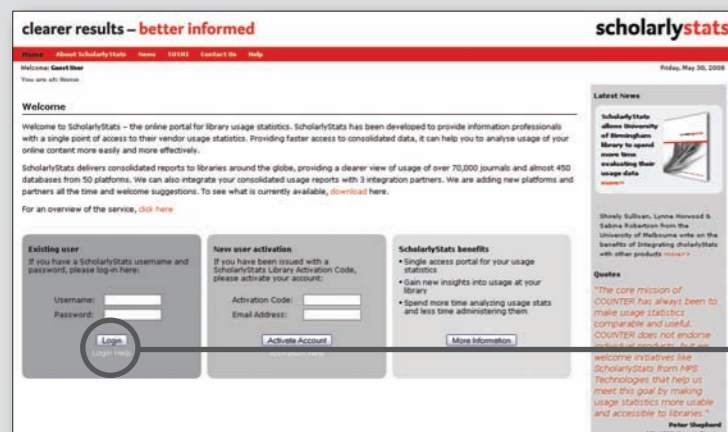

Administration

Assemble and administer all usage statistics vendor access details in one place. Available for "Library Administrator" ScholarlyStats users to pull together usage statistics administrative information on the ScholarlyStats portal.

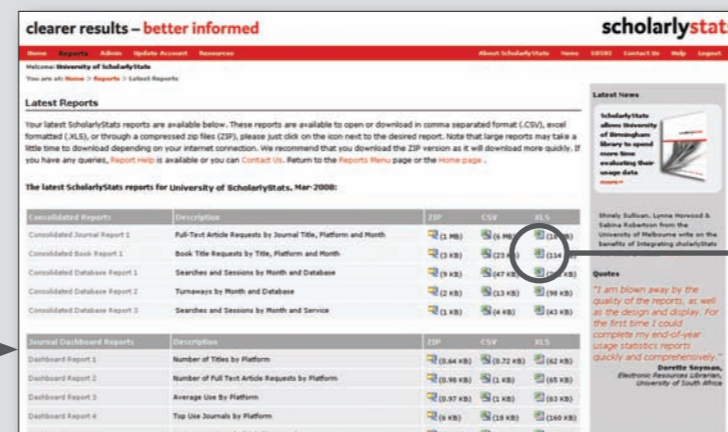

Help us develop ScholarlyStats

Tell us what you want as your usage statistics requirements develop. ScholarlyStats provides a responsive service to its customers. The ScholarlyStats portal allows you to suggest new reports and tools that will help your usage analysis.
